

PARENT-STUDENT HANDBOOK AGREEMENT

Dear Parents and Students,

Each year we are given the challenge of bringing a diverse group of students – their strengths, talents, weaknesses, curiosities, and fears – together toward a common understanding about community and shared responsibilities. There is a continual need for us to engage in dialogue about the issues that are important to our immediate community and our extended community.

Whether you are returning to CRMS or new to the school, reading the Parent-Student Handbook together is a critical first step in this dialogue. Please read through the enclosed Handbook (plus a pdf version is available online at www.crms.org > Parents > Parent Student Handbook). Set aside some time to discuss the values of the school and the expectations and consequences outlined within the Handbook. Once having done so, please sign and return the following agreement.

Thank you,

Jennifer Ogilby
Dean of Students

My child and I (we) have read the Colorado Rocky Mountain School Parent-Student Handbook and discussed the material therein. We support the values and understand the expectations and consequences as outlined in the Handbook.
